STATE NEWS.

Androscoggin

A little son of O. A. Barker, of Livermore Falls, six years old, was drowned Tuesday night in the Androscoggin river.

Sunday night, some roughs broke thro' the front window of O. T. Campbell & Co.'s grocery store, at Lewiston, and stole thirty or forty lbs. of honey in boxes which were placed in the window.

Saturday afternoon, an honest farmer left a weak-eyed youth in charge of his team in Haymarket Square, at Lewiston, while he strolled down Lisbon street to price some gingham. When the farmer returned, the youth had departed and left the team to care for itself. A nice overcoat which laid on the seat had been taken. Deputy Sheriff Bangs looked up the case, and ascertained that the fellow whom the farmer had left with the team, had delivered the coat to an accomplice. Bangs found the coat on the premises of William Lannigan. Lannegan was arraigned in the Municipal Court, Tuesday morning.

A Lewiston man has an order to make sixty thousand boxes for a Boston firm, to be used in packing chopped codfish.

Cumberland.

The Cumberland Centre Farmers' Club has to abandoned holding its annual cattle show and fair, but will hold it on the 1st and 2d of October, with some new and improved changes in the programme. It is proposed to offer a farmers' purse for trotting horses, to be free to all persons residing in the towns of Cumberland, Falmouth, Yarmouth, and North Yarmouth, the winning horse in each town to trot for a ... purse. Five dollars is offered for the best and largest display of fruit raised by exhibitor, in addition to the regular club premiums. The special premium of a ... subscription to either the Maine Farmer or Country Gentleman is again offered for the best lot of butter. If the weather proves favorable they warrant a good fair to all who may attend.

Kennebec.

The Gardiner trotting park has recently been put in excellent condition.

A young man from Augusta was severely whipped Monday, on Bridge street, by some roughs from Hallowell. All had been drinking.

Christopher Mitchell, Esq., aged ninety-three years, voted a square Republican ticket in ward three in Augusta, Monday. He well remembers when the roads were marked there and in that vicinity by spotted trees. His faculties are very good. Probably Mr. Mitchell is the oldest voter in the city.

Oxford

As Mr. Isaac Crocker and wife, of Albany, were making an afternoon call, their attention was attracted by the running of a flock of sheep which they soon discovered was closely pursued by a large bear. As old Bruin discovered that Crocker and his father were in for protecting the sheep, he took to the woods, and soon two young bears came in sight and were apparently anticipating joining their mother at a feast of fresh mutton. Mr. Crocker turned upon them and with a pocket rifle shot one of them and the other made good his escape. The bear that was shot weighed eighty pounds.

Mrs. F. M. Blossom of Byron, met with a singular accident several days since, she went out a few rods from the house to a gate leading to the pasture, and was found, a little later, lying senseless near the gate. She remained insensible about two hours after being carried into the house; and even after recovering entirely from the daze caused by the shock, cannot remember how the accident happened. It is supposed, from the bruises about her head, that she was standing by the gate, the top of which was unfastened and leaned from her, that a colt came up, and wheeled sharply, throwing the gate against her.

York.

The Press says: About 3 o'clock Tuesday morning a long storehouse on Lord's wharf, at Kennebunkport, was entirely burned. The new schooner Sunrise on the northern side of the wharf and only six feet from the building was barely saved, the rigging and spars being ruined, and the deck, rails, plankshear, etc., damaged, in all to the amount of about $1000; owned by Lyman, Mitchell, et als., of Kennebunk, and insured. Two other buildings quite near the burned store were damaged by the fire, and but for the efficient action of the recently re-organized fire company, must have been lost, and an extensive conflagration resulted. The storehouses were owned by Daniel H. Lord of Malden, and are probably not insured. Fire incendiary.

HOW DIAMONDS WERE FOUND IN SOUTH AFRICA.

The modern discovery of diamonds came about in this wise. In 1867 a certain John O'Reilly, trader and hunter, on his way from the interior, reached the junction of the rivers and stopped for the night at the farm of a Dutch farmer named Van Niekerk. The children were playing on the earth floor with some pretty pebbles they had found long before in the river. One of these pebbles attracted O'Reilly's attention. He said, picking it up, "That might be a diamond." Niekerk laughed and said he could have it; it was no diamond; if it was, there were plenty around there. However, O'Reilly was not to be laughed out of his idea, and said that if Niekerk didn't object he would take it down with him to Cape Town, and see what it was, and if it proved to be of value he would give him half the proceeds. On the way down, at ... Hotel, he stopped at Colesberg, ... and showed the pebble, ... [illegible] ... O'Reilly persevered and sent it to Dr. Atherstone, near the coast, who announced that it was in truth a diamond of 21½ carats. It was sold for £500. I am glad to say that O'Reilly divided fairly with Niekerk. The latter remembered that he had seen an immense stone in the hands of a Kafir witch-doctor who used it in his incantations. He found the fetish-man, gave him 500 sheep, horses, and nearly all he possessed, and sold it the same day to an experienced diamond-buyer for £11,000. This was the famous "Star of South Africa." It weighed 83½ carats in the rough and was found to be a gem quite the rival of any Indian stone in purity and brilliance. After it had been cut it was bought by the Earl of Dudley and it is now known as the "Dudley" diamond. The news ... over the ground and found many more, and the excitement grew and became intense. By 1869 parties in ox-wagons had worked their way over the weary plain to the Vaal River. From all parts of the colony and from foreign lands, people swarmed, and soon, like the creation of a dream, a tented city of twelve thousand and more grew at Pniel and Klipdrift, the opposite banks of the stream where diamonds were found plentifully and of excellent quality by sorting over the boulder-drift. Soon hundreds of cradles, like those used by the Australian gold-diggers were rocking on the edge of the stream, supplied with the precious gravel by a large force of diggers, drivers, and carriers. People were thunderstruck at their success. Poor men with a turn of the hand became rich. Hotels, bakeries, breweries, drinking saloons and shops were erected and reaped rewards quite as large as did the diggers. It was a marvelous scene at night when the opposite camps were lit up with the warm glow of lights shining through the tent cloth buildings and the brilliant camp-fires of their twelve thousand inhabitants glanced across the water, from bank to bank. Far into the night were kept up the shouts and laughter and singing and music and ... of the boats. The excited crowds shifted their quarters up and down the river, making new discoveries during 1870 and 1871, over an area of from forty to fifty miles of the stream, and forming many camps such as Gong Gong, Union Kopje, Colesberg Kopje, Delport's Hope, Blue Jacket, Forlorn Hope, Waldeck's Plant, Larkin's Flat, and Niekerk's Hope.—Scribner's Monthly.

RUSSIAN CHEESE. An article of diet of almost universal consumption among the poorer classes in Russia is the variety of home made cheese known as "Tworog," of which more than 7,000,000 pounds are sold annually in St. Petersburg alone. Its mode of preparation is very simple. Sour skim milk is placed over night in a warm oven, and poured the next day over a sieve, where it is allowed to remain till all the whey has run off. The curd is then packed tightly in a wooden vessel, and covered with a lid made to fit exactly within it. On this heavy weights are placed, so as to keep up a constant pressure on the mass of curd; and the space between the lid and the top of the vessel is filled with cold water, which is frequently renewed. Tworog cheese is, in fact, nothing more than hard pressed curd. In the northwestern and southern governments of the empire it is often made from sheep's milk, and in Bessarabia a superior quality made from the whole milk is prepared which possesses far better keeping properties than the ordinary sort, and which is exported in considerable quantities to Wallachia, Moldavia, and even to Austria.—American Dairyman

THE REPUBLICAN PARTY OF MAINE TRUE TO PRINCIPLE—THE DEMOCRATS SOLD OUT TO THE RAG BABY.

[From the N. Y. Times.]

That at the very crisis of the long and arduous struggle which the country has undergone to overcome the evils brought on by paper money and the waste of war, so conservative a State as Maine has always been should allow the illusion of inflation and possible repudiation to make such progress among her people is a grievous disappointment to the friends of sound money and a grave discredit to herself.
